How to turn video into images without wasting time or money on a dedicated photo editing tool. Let's face it, we all have a rather poor recollection on what we have been watching over the years. The problem is that there are billions of hours of video stored on digital devices and the impact of putting together a slideshow that does not include all these beloved memories is very small. At the same time, creating the first slide could take you several minutes. While it may be a short time, it can also be quite frustrating if you have decided to create a slide show featuring a certain video. Fortunately, the Wreck Video to Photos app is here to provide the best way to recycle your favorite videos. If you want to take snapshots of your favorite scenes, but lack the software skills to do it properly, Wreck Video to Photos may be your best option. All you need to do is shoot a video, which can be taken in the Wreck Video to Photos app, upload it to the app and it will do the rest of the job, without you having to pay any additional costs. There are several other options on the market, but none of them are as easy to use or as straightforward. For instance, it is not entirely clear how to upload your video to the app and it is even more obscure how to create your own, as well as how to edit the same. On the contrary, Wreck Video to Photos is quite easy and straightforward, as it is quite self-explanatory. If you want to create a new slide, simply click on the plus sign on the app's toolbar and select your video. After that, you have just one option to choose from – 'Start Wreck'. The process will start automatically and you can adjust the slideshow as you want. It is also quite easy to save it as you want. You can simply drag the image of the newly created slide out of the app's main window and place it in the desired location. Wreck Video to Photos Video-to-Images converter Besides creating the slideshow, Wreck Video to Photos can also be used to convert the videos in other formats. It is a video-to-images converter that is able to convert videos to images. You can either upload the videos directly to the app or to your computer, then convert them to images in a single operation. You can then use the images in any of the common image editing software. The program
