Correlation of computed tomography and histology. Sixty consecutive patients in whom a poorly differentiated bone and bone-like lesion was observed on computed tomography were studied to determine whether CT findings were related to the histologic appearance. There were 42 primary and 18 metastatic lesions in 17 women and 43 men ranging in age from 36 to 78 years (mean, 61 years). CT scans were available in all patients. All lesions were described as distinctly hyperattenuating masses and were regarded as benign. Sixteen of 60 lesions (27%) had a distinct, well-defined, ring- or shell-like peripheral margin.

I have a line of text that I need to parse in Groovy, however it is stored inside a database as a varchar. I am looking to extract the text from this database record so I can copy it over to a file. However, there are a number of characters that need to be removed from the start and the end of the string. The String I am working with is "random' EXTRACT '(6840.4318)'" What I am trying to get is 6840.4318 I have tried the following solution def extract = "random' EXTRACT '(6840.4318)'" def extractWithoutQuote = extract.replaceAll("'", "") But I am getting an error Unknown class:'replaceAll' from the console. Can anyone suggest an alternative that can solve this problem. Thank you. A: Simply access it with an additional value after the function: String s = "random' EXTRACT '(6840.4318)'" s = s.replaceAll("'", "") You can access multiple characters at once with d0c515b9f4
